Vampires Lure Wealthy Society Men Into Lair of Blackmailers' Gang

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York—Following the arrest as a material witness and release on bond of Mrs. Hazel Davis Warner, in whose bungalow in the Bronx John E. Reid, wealthy lingerie manufacturer, was shot five times early Sunday morning, May 15, police believe they have brought to light one of the worst blackmail gangs in the history of the city.

Since the government made the federal law a more dangerous one to tamper with, the band has found the ocean a fertile field of operation. Work at Sea. Taking their schools to sea required only minor changes. Beautiful women of the same type who encouraged the advances of wealthy men ashore and lured them across state lines were put aboard. They kept much to themselves until the right man came along—as the plotter always said to it they did.

When time for the levy came it was not a "federal agent," but an "indignant brother" who came on the scene. That was about the only difference. Instead of arrest and exposure the threat was: "Pay or be shot!" Getting Close to "King." It developed on Monday that the police were getting closer to the "king" of the blackmailers. It also became public that the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who perished on the Lusitania, was flooded by the band out of $75,000.

The Bronx district attorney unexpectedly unearthed a nest of blackmailers who have many rich men in their clutches. District Attorney Glenn said: "The name of Alfred G. Vanderbilt unfortunately comes to the surface. With the view of the death he planned to a private detective agency in Manhattan that his life had been threatened at the house shot in Madison Square Garden." "He went to Europe, and my understanding is, he was followed across the ocean by the blackmailers," who again threatened his life. His alternative was to pay a large sum of money to prevent a suit that would have brought his unpleasant publicity.

"Believing his life in danger, he complained at Scotland Yard and in Paris, I am told, he obtained protection in the same way." "They followed him back to his own doorstep, you might say. Finally he settled with the 'king' of the blackmailers. I am told, for $75,000. We have this 'king' so-called under surveillance."

REVIVE INTEREST IN WAR HISTORY

Efforts to be Made to Get County Soldier Records and Relics Together.

Establishment of a Rock county war memorial exposition is being favored by people interested in preserving the history of the county. The collecting and exhibiting of the individual records of soldiers in the war is being revived with the view of having a complete historical record for Rock county. During the period of the World war and immediately after the return of the soldiers, the Veterans History club in Janesville obtained an excellent start in the compiling of records. Blanks were sent out to obtain a comprehensive record of the military service of every man or woman with the colors.

Records at Post Office. Mrs. David W. Holmes was a leader for this district with Prof. R. B. Way, Beloit college, as chairman. In Rock county, there is a lack of about one-third of the records of the people serving from Janesville and adjacent district. An attempt is now to be made to make the records complete. Shortly after the armistice and during the period of demobilization the service men generally were unwilling to loan the various services collected at home. Requests were made to loan them for the records to be labeled and descriptive matter prepared explaining their significance. It was collecting at that time was not much of a success due to the high value then set upon all war relics. They are just as valuable and more so now than many of the things that are discarded. Because the military planter has been dimmed by two years of peace.

Urgent Action Now. "If we do not collect the histories and relics now they may be lost," said Mrs. Holmes on Tuesday. The service men should be encouraged to those who fought and served. Such an exhibit would be intensely interesting and valuable a few years from now.

The war records are now in files at the postoffice. They are to be moved within two weeks time to a

Sen. Lenroot Fights Bill for Big Navy

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington—Continuing his fight against committee measures to increase naval appropriations, Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, declared Tuesday in the senate that President Harding's address Monday in Robert La Follette's body of the American soldiers returned from overseas had been distorted by big navy advocates.

The senator cited press accounts of the speech in his contention that the dropping out of certain words in the address of the president had been made to say that "he wished a nation so powerful that none will dare molest us." The senator said that Mr. Harding had said that he wished a nation "so powerful in righteousness that none will dare to invoke her wrath."

Senator Lenroot argued that the China clause should remain as the second naval power. "When we go beyond that we are throwing our money away," he said.

HEIRS TO HELP FILL STATE'S COFFERS

Senate Favors Doubling of Inheritance Taxes to Increase Revenue.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison—Doubling of inheritance taxes through a 100 per cent raise in rates was favorably acted on by the senate Tuesday when it approved the bill. Revenue from inheritance under present rates totaled $1,100,000 during the past year.

Maximum rates under the proposed bill which is expected to pass both houses, are set at 5 per cent on estates of over $25,000 where the beneficiary is not a direct relative of the deceased person. The schedule of rates throughout is doubled, meaning an additional $1,000,000 annually, judged by past experience.

Action on the educational re-organization bill, the Skogmo bill, calling for a new state board of education, and the Olson bill calling for abolition of the state board of education and the state board of vocational education, were tabled by the upper house.

Forest Fire Hazard Big

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Duluth—Heavy southwest winds prevailed throughout the forests of northeastern Minnesota Tuesday and Wednesday. The weather conditions within 24 hours will be as great as late last week when a series of costly conflagrations occurred. The state forestry department here said Tuesday.

Repairing of telephone lines in the burned over area is progressing rapidly and reports of forest fires are beginning to come into the forestry headquarters. Camp equipment valued at $50,000 and timber, estimated at $100,000, was destroyed in the Wales district of the state reserve. Losses in the Superior National range along the Stoney road may exceed those sustained at Duluth. Supervisor Dahlgren at Ely said.

Heat from the flames killed the engine. The engine was derailed and the freight car was overturned. Several freight cars were burned slightly. French Warning to Germany. 406 Members Signed on Opening Day of Chamber Drive, Enthusiasm High TUESDAY'S SHOWING Goal 500. Precured by teams 406. By executive committee 240. Total signed 406.

Signing up 406 members for the first day of the Chamber of Commerce membership drive, workers of the Janesville Chamber Tuesday morning exceeded by 106 every record made in Wisconsin except by Milwaukee. According to Edward P. Trefz, first deputy secretary of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the record is the best since three that he has seen in the 258 campaigns in cities of 100,000 or under anywhere in the United States in which he has participated.

Of these results, 102 were secured Tuesday morning by the 16 teams. The balance of 244 were canvassed in factories and business houses by the special committee, and represent plural memberships, of which the Samson Tractor company leads with 75.

Enthusiasm Is High. Wild enthusiasm reigned when the 160 workers were informed of their success. Mr. Trefz gave another of his red-hot addresses in which he declared that the showing was amazing.

and indicates that the citizens here have grasped the real spirit of community service. He stated that the continuation by the Samson company of the same number of memberships when the outlook for that concern for the next year is extremely black, should set the pace for the rest of the city.

"The man who won't come in to the Chamber of Commerce is as much a slacker as the man who refused to buy a Liberty bond," he said.

Will Announce Budget. It was announced at the luncheon, which was held at the Y. M. C. A., that a copy of the Chamber's budget for the next year, calling for an expenditure of $20,000, will be given to each worker Wednesday. A financial statement of the organization will also be made.

LIGHTNING KILLS TWO YOUNG MEN

Electrical Storm Severe in Southern Wisconsin But Damage Is Slight.

Two young boys were killed by lightning in the electrical storm which came up suddenly late Monday afternoon, doing some damage in Southern Wisconsin. Wilfred Holmer, 16, was killed while at work in the field three miles south of Plattville at 3:30 Monday afternoon. He was driving a three horse team with a harrow, when struck by a bolt and instantly killed. The boy was taken to the hospital, but died before he could be taken to the hospital.

Victor Morrissey, 19 year old resident of Madison had just come from a swim and was standing underneath a tree when a bolt of lightning struck him causing instant death. The storm also resulted in the destroying a barn and house at Madison.

Reports from Plattville, Monroe and Madison indicate that the damage was slight. It was reported that some damage had been done to fruit trees by the storm and there was some trouble experienced by telephone wires.

The rain which fell almost all night was welcomed with relief by the farmers whose crops are in bad need of a large amount of rainfall. It also brought relief to many stricken by the heat and aided in reducing the thermometer several degrees.

WELICK HOME STRUCK BY LIGHTNING MONDAY NIGHT

The home of Charles Welick, Sinclair street, was struck by lightning Monday night, causing considerable damage. The bolt hit the chimney knocking off several bricks but causing no fire damage. Chief Murphy went up to the house and found the attic full of water and no blaze.

That the relief from the heat was only temporary is indicated by the reports from the thermometer of the Sheldon hardware company. Following a gradual increase all day. With the coming of the rain it cooled and was somewhat cooler Monday evening and Tuesday morning. It did not take long for it to get up to near its former high mark for at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon it registered 87 degrees in the shade.

Mrs. Bergdoll Defiant, Tells Committee It Is "Too Nosey" About Gold

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington—Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, draft dodger, boldly defied members of the house committee investigating the gold issue Tuesday.

"No," answered Mrs. Bergdoll, "I don't want to lead you into temptation. Do you think I want to waste my time that way? It's in a safe place and I don't want to go out to near its former high mark for at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon it registered 87 degrees in the shade."

"I don't believe you have that gold," said Lutting. "Don't care what you believe," answered Mrs. Bergdoll. Lutting asked her why she was hearing the gold. "Well, we might have a revolution," she replied.

"Nobody's business," she answered. Lutting wanted to know how long it took her to accumulate the bundle of bills with which she obtained the gold from the treasury. "That's nobody's business," she answered.

ALLIES AT CRISIS OVER POLICY IN PLEBISCITE AREA

BRITAIN ASKED TO STATE HIS STAND ON OCCUPATION.

GERMANY YIELDS Quick Reply to Paris Says Frontiers Will be Closed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris—Fighting between Germans and allies in Silesia has created a new crisis over the policy to be followed by the allied nations regarding the former province of Germany, and it had a distinct voice in the support of chambers of deputies when it convened Tuesday. The Silesian situation developed rapidly Monday night and demands for the occupation of the Ruhr region of Germany were made.

It appeared to be the avowed purpose of the opposition to force M. Briand to state the position of the government and to demand immediate occupation of the Ruhr district of Germany should the Berlin government refuse to take steps to withdraw German troops from the plebiscite zone without delay.

Premier Briand, questioned by a group of deputies before the meeting of the chamber, said there was no reason for the occupation of the Ruhr region because the aspect of the Silesian question had been changed, and if the Ruhr were occupied without the consent of the allies it would be equivalent to abandonment of the treaty of Versailles.

Germany replied Tuesday to the French communication of Monday night. The German government declared in effect that Germany had taken the most rigorous measures to warding closing its frontier with upper Silesia.

The French communication was sent by Premier Briand Monday night to the German ambassador, Dr. Mayer, who was requested to ask his government to withdraw its troops from Silesia. All attempts at aggression in Silesia if Germany did not wish to expose herself to reprisals by the allies.

The German answer was brought to the French foreign office by Ambassador Mayer Tuesday morning. Dr. Mayer informed Premier Briand and the German government decided to withdraw its troops from Silesia. After his call, French official circles were optimistic regarding the Upper Silesian situation.

Dr. Mayer's communication, while not officially so stated, was assumed to be a reply to the note Premier Briand had handed Tuesday evening and was considered a good augury of the disposition of the Berlin government to avoid trouble.

The appointment of Dr. Friedrich Rosen as minister to Holland, as foreign minister in the German cabinet, on the contrary produced a most unfavorable impression. The French press, however, regarded Rosen as an inveterate enemy of France. Fears were expressed in official circles that the presence in the Wilhelmstrasse of a diplomat so closely connected with the old regime would prove an obstacle to the better relations between France and Germany which had promised well from the attitude of the government of Chancellor Wirth.

Detroit—Preliminary hearing for Mrs. Elizabeth Lewen, 58, on a charge of murdering 6-year-old boy, was set for Tuesday. Mrs. Lewen pleaded not guilty. BUY COAL NOW, IS DEALERS' WARNING

Fuel Men Declare Prices Are Going to Increase Rather Than Drop.

By your winter coal supply now! This warning is sounded by Janesville coal dealers who have issued in a campaign to urge coal buying now even though protection from the cold is farthest from the public mind. Chief among the reasons outlined by the retailers is the fact that the coal supply is expected to be "jam in the coal demand and orders" during the early winter months. There is an unlimited amount of coal to be had at reasonable prices, say the dealers, considering freight rates. In connection with the supply of anthracite coal, there is practically an unlimited supply of railroad coals and ships for transportation.

Lack Orders Now
This is due directly to the lack of orders. People unacquainted of the acute coal situation of even so short a time as last winter, pay little or no attention to coal orders. The buyer expects coal to decrease in price. The dealers say "there isn't a chance for lower prices. The coal market is tight and prices will increase month by month."

The coal situation right now is at a standstill. The miners want work and the operators want to keep the mines running. The business depression has also put a deep thrust into the work at the mines for the industrial plants are using a small amount of coal.

Coal $18 a Ton
Under existing freight rates, the dealers say that coal will not be cheaper. Big coal is being sold in Janesville this month for $18 a ton, and $18.25 for the best range coal. Employees of the Field Lumber company stated coal would increase about 10 cents a month until delivery late in the fall when there would be such a rush to obtain coal supply for the winter.

With so many little miners, and so many idle cars the consumer is being urged to take advantage of the situation and buy now. A belated rush will mean excessive, or at least higher prices, it is declared, because everyone will want coal at the same time and the price will be determined by the limited supply and the big demand.

Baptists Here for Institute to Last 3 Days
With leading Baptist church leaders from Wisconsin, Illinois, and Indiana present to direct the work, the annual three day training school under the auspices of the Wisconsin Baptist association opened at the Baptist church at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. Sunday school teachers, young people's workers and others interested in church work from throughout the Rock county are expected at the meetings. Arrangements have been made to entertain those in attendance in homes as much as possible.

The American Baptist Publication Society and the Baptist state convention are co-operating with the Janesville association in making the institute a success.

Supper will be served each night at 6:15 for the attending teachers and workers in the Methodist church which will be followed by another session of classwork in a general assembly with addresses by prominent church workers.

Rev. R. C. Peterson has arranged to show a six reel picture which he highly recommends, entitled "The Stream of Life" at 8:15 Tuesday evening in connection with the meetings of the institute but to which everyone is cordially invited.

At the Theatres

"Sowing of the Wind," which has Anita Stewart as the star, opened an engagement in the Apollo theatre and will be repeated Tuesday afternoon and night.

It is a problem play. There are scenes of wild revelry of glittering Broadway along with the shadows. There is a smirking villain, sinister plots, during scenes and everything that goes to make up a production of this type.

The best acting in the picture is by Ralph Lewis and William V. Mong. James Morrison plays in support of Anita Stewart.

But perhaps you will like it for there are daring scenes, statements and conditions with a happy ending. Constance Talmadge will appear in "The Perfect Woman" on Wednesday and Thursday nights. Her most recent appearance here was a decided success for she has developed into a screen comedienne of ability and is rivaling her popular sister, Norma Talmadge.

Salvation Army Plans for High School Are Due Within 10 Days

Plans are going ahead so rapidly that the children's nursery establishment in the Salvation Army headquarters on North Main street, in response to a demand by mothers for such a place will probably be opened June 1.

Captain Jack Dermody, commander of the post, having the two front rooms, on the second floor of the building, remodeled in preparation for the opening of the children's nursery. A play room with a sand pit and other toys will be fitted up and in the other room, four beds will be placed for the children when they become tired and sleepy.

A matron either from Janesville or Milwaukee headquarters will be assigned to take charge of the nursery. It will be open from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. Toys will probably be used to keep a record of the children, as this is the easiest and most systematic method.

Mr. Dermody stated Saturday that the quarters will be only temporary during the summer while the children are out of school and that larger quarters will be arranged before September 1.

The first article dealt with those planning to attend college. The third will tell what 445 students think the Chamber of Commerce should undertake for the improvement of Janesville.

Should "Wake Up"
Still another declares that unless the city wakes up it will drop off in population and get back to 10,000 by 1930. He says it was in 1880. One pupil answered that it is too "dead for business firms."

Ambition, however, runs supreme in the decisions of those who will not remain here, especially the 40 who want a larger field. In this class are those desiring to be civil engineers, private secretaries to a "big" man, airplane mechanics, electrical engineers, journalists, singers and concert artists, foresters, commercial artists and so on, more of which will be told in the third article. Among them are three who have decided that they want to see the world and travel.

A strain of the method in which America is "doing" things—a big way—even strikes those stating that they are going on the farm. Some of these boys want to go further west to work on a ranch.

Confidence of Future
Absolute confidence in the continued progress of Janesville permeates the answers made by the 172 who have decided to live their lives in the city of their high school experience. The tone of these replies is contained in the following by one of the students:

"Janesville is growing every day and presents new opportunities to the ambitious" and "some day will be a great city."

Hardly any of the replies were without some qualification in regard to the city. Take for instance, this statement: "Janesville is one of the finest cities in Wisconsin, although there could be improvements."

The honey atmosphere of the city, its trees and beautiful homes, is mentioned in many of the answers, both by the boys and girls. There was one boy who caught the teachings of the highest type of citizenship. His answer received much comment from those who saw it. Here it is:

"I like Janesville and want to make it a better city if I can."

"It is His Word."

When it comes to the replies made by those who were undecided, the one word, "DEBATES," stuck out in each. "I shall remain here!" That if showed that the students are watching carefully the advance of the city with an eye to the upward march of other cities. In this group of 181 students, are evidently a great many real thinkers, according to those who have examined the survey papers, although not the largest percentage by any means. These boys and girls are aiming high, planning to enter professional life. To them, the present position of Janesville presents a quandary. Should it grow rapidly enough by the time they have finished their college education—a group being many of the 68 per cent

ARTICLE II
The city of medium size that can hold its young people from drifting off to lose themselves in the mazes of the bigger towns, sometimes to bob up again victorious in the battle of life, many times unable to cope with the mad whirl of busy irresponsibility thousands, is indeed fortunate. Janesville would seem to be among the communities that hold the distinction of being able to provide a rosy future for its coming generations.

30 Per Cent Undecided
A survey by the Chamber of Commerce, as part of its expansion campaign, had them determine more of the students of the local high school who will make their homes here after completing their education. The results are as follows: Of the 445, 58.1 per cent, more than half, or 260 per cent of the whole are undecided, some because it depends upon what their parents do, others just marking time until they can determine more definitely. Only 28.2 per cent will seek their fortunes elsewhere. The figures, themselves, show that 174 out of 445 will make their homes here: 129 will not and 111 are still considering.

The tabulation made by the Chamber, according to classes, shows:

S-A	1	2	3	4	Tot.	Per.
Yes	20	31	69	29	149	33.5
No	27	24	34	12	107	23.8
Undec.	33	40	24	21	122	27.7
Grand total	80	95	127	62	464	100.0

What's the matter with Janesville that 28.2 per cent of the 445 who replied have decided to seek their fame in other places? A hasty compilation of their reasons shows that 40 believe that this city is not large enough to give them as ripe a field as they desire in which to pursue the activities of their plan. Twelve others do not give any definite reason and pass the matter by with formality. 21 will either go back to their homes or to some other city because that is the plan of their parents. Seven have decided to become farmers.

But the most interesting are the seven who come out flat-footedly and say that they do not like Janesville. Three of them go so far as to declare that "it is dead." One of them has this to say:

"This town never carries out what it says. They planned a new high school, built the foundation and let it sit. Every month they say the new school will be completed, but when planning to continue their studies—they will remain here."

One member of the Chamber of Commerce expansion group declared that this "is a direct challenge to the city."

HELD FOR TRIAL ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Snively to be Tried in Municipal Court, July 6 for Alleged Moonshine Sale.

Tolled, with the aid of Dist. Atty. S. G. Dunne, claim to have made another advance in the anti-bonze crusade when Judge H. L. Maxfield on Tuesday ordered Floyd Snively bound over for trial, July 6, on a charge of selling moonshine. Snively's liberty having furnished his car as $500 bail.

Snively was held for trial following his preliminary examination in municipal court on Monday morning. In this Harold Pederson, a barber, was the chief witness. He told of having bought drinks from Snively over the bar at Donahue's saloon, Milwaukee, and later of having bought a bottle of white moonshine whiskey. The moonshine was found on him by police following his arrest. Pederson said he remembers nothing of what happened from 4 o'clock that afternoon until he awoke the next morning in the city lockup.

Word has been received by Fred Palmer, First National bank, president of the chapter, that every one of the 37 members who took the final examination passed and will be granted certificates by the American Institute of Banking. It is planned to start the class work next year about October, studying commercial law.

Officers will be elected Wednesday night to succeed Fred Palmer, president; W. E. Hyzer, vice-president; T. T. Nolan, secretary; and Robert Conway, treasurer.

Committees have been appointed to arrange for a Janesville bankers' picnic, June 1. Bankers will close on that afternoon for the first Wednesday this summer. All bank officials and employees and their wives will attend. Baseball between the east and west sides is to be a feature.

CO-OPERATION IS HARDING'S KEYNOTE

The co-operation of every factor of American business and industry to put the nation's house in order after the dislocation of war was bespoken by President Harding Monday night at a dinner here celebrating the 125th anniversary of the New York Commercial.

Agriculture, labor, and business management, the president declared, must stand together in the confident purpose of reconstruction. He asserted that although the United States did not want to live in isolation and selfishness, its duties to the rest of the world could best be performed by giving its attention first to the rehabilitation of its own resources.

On the part of the administration, Mr. Harding promised that government interference with business would be reduced to a minimum, while government cooperation with all properly conducted businesses would be expanded and broadened. Emphasizing the fundamental importance of agriculture, the president asserted that the farmer was entitled to "all the help the government can give him without injustice to others." For the wage earner he asked sufficient compensation for comfort, education, and a margin of savings, while for every other element in industry he urged a fair opportunity to do its part in the reconstruction task.

THE ROLL OF HONOR FOR JANESVILLE.

For a month the Chamber of Commerce of Janesville has been, through public meetings, questionnaires, voluntary contributions of ideas, an open forum for discussion and suggestion, preparing for the day which has now arrived to enroll the men and women of the city in its active management.

We have had a Chamber of Commerce for three years. In spite of many handicaps, in spite of great changes and additions to the population and industrial life of the city, it has accomplished an immense amount of good. Under the present plan of expansion and renewal, the membership has been the key to the whole future of the Chamber and on this line it must proceed. The membership is the dominating force, and through the members' forum must make the record for the Chamber.

The Chamber of Commerce is the organized activity of the city. It is the Civic soul of Janesville. It must speak the mind of the public and voice its hopes, ambitions and desires for a better city. It is the Great Voice of the joined-together, organized community. It is the crystallization of the attitude of the community on matters having to do with city advancement and therefore for the individual benefit. It is the active advance courier for the march of the whole people toward higher ideals in community life.

No one individual can do what 800 can accomplish. The Chamber of Commerce is not only a business organization with machinery to handle questions arising from commercial and other activities, but is the only means yet devised whereby public opinion may be organized and centered and unified for real constructive action and results.

In a month there has been a greater unification of all interests in the city of Janesville than has been apparent for years. More steps in that direction will follow. It rests entirely with the men and women who become members, how far that goes. The Chamber of Commerce wants 800 members by Saturday night of this week. It ought to have more. Cities with far less population have memberships of from 1200 to 1500. But here the goal has been set for 800 and that will be reached if Janesville is awake to its opportunity.

A Chamber of Commerce is the most unselfish business or civic organization in America. It is the most unselfish because what it does is done without selecting any individual to benefit or picking out a member to aid. Men invest their money in memberships and the dividends they receive are just in the same amount as any other resident of the community. There is the great principle behind it all—what is good for the whole city is good for the individual. There is a splendid satisfaction, a great reward in having done something for one's neighbors and fellow citizens. The Chamber of Commerce, here or elsewhere, cannot serve any special interest. What it does and what it will do must be for the whole people of Janesville and the community round about. That must be done too, after a referendum to its membership who declare its policy and make up its program.

That is the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce. That is its platform. That is its reason for being. Membership in it is a certificate of good citizenship, a citation for progress—a service medal. It is Roll of Honor.

THE MINGO RESOLUTION.

West Virginia seems to have made a failure of state government for the coal war has been going on for over a year, in fact there has been trouble about Williamson and in the Mingo country for more than three years. These miners live in little shacks in narrow valleys about the coal mines, have none of the comforts of, and no incentive to a better life. Sordid indeed are those coal mining villages. Strikers and strike breakers have been in constant conflict, the coal companies keep an armed force of private deputy sheriffs and the powder magazine is always exposed to the flame. Beautiful scenery, mountain valleys, streams of pure water, flower-laden hillsides, mean nothing in this industrial conflict. The miners are men who come from the oldest of American families—mountain men, and are not used to being driven nor have they ever been educated to really live. Where the fault lies in the bloodshed and the guerrilla warfare has not been clearly stated. It seems to be up to the government of West Virginia, which has so far signally failed, to harmonize the elements or to secure a cessation of the troubles. Perhaps Congress might bring out the truth, which abides somewhere between the extremes.

Wear a poppy.

In his speech at the Civic meeting Monday night, Mr. Treitz made it very emphatic that cities were made and improved, for civic benefit because there were children. That is the biggest thing in the city of Janesville—the coming generation. That is why we should not wait but secure the Whistler Returns to Washington.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—Among the employees of the Coast and Geodetic Survey here in the year 1854 was an insubordinate, impudent, handsome young man named Whistler. He had been a cadet at West Point and had been discharged for his inability to learn chemistry. In an oral examination he told the professor that silicon was a gas, that was the end of his military career. He said later in life, "If silicon had been a gas, I should have been a soldier."

His career in the Coast and Geodetic Survey was not much more successful than that in the military academy. He showed an aptitude for graphic art, and so was set to drawing and engraving maps. He made a plate known as Coast Survey No. 1, which is said to be one of the most beautiful that the Government ever turned out. Unfortunately he could not resist the temptation to embellish it with a few portraits around the margins, and this was resented by his superiors. Soon Whistler was out of the Government service, and a little later he left the United States for Paris to study art.

Whistler never returned to America in the flesh, but within the last few months he may be said to have returned to it in the spirit. In the Library of Congress, Joseph Pennell, Whistler's official biographer, has installed his great collection of Whistler's drawings, letters, manuscripts and other mementos of the man who failed in America as a Government employee and a soldier, and went abroad to become one of the greatest artists of his generation. And down on the Mall there has been recently completed the Frer Gallery, which will contain as its chief treasure the famous Peacock Room, decorated by Whistler for a British millionaire. So, after an absence of more than half a century, and nearly 20 years after his own death, Whistler may be said to have returned to his native land.

Whistler belongs to that small company of Americans who have won the attention of the whole civilized world—the company of Poe and Whitman and Emerson in literature, of Grant and Lincoln in war and government. Of them all, he is perhaps the least known to Americans in general. This is not remarkable in view of the facts that Whistler spent his whole working life in Europe, and that most of his paintings are in European galleries. Most of his time was spent in London, and the British are inclined to claim him as a British artist. But he was born in Massachusetts of old American stock, and if not educated in America, at least the attempt was made here. Furthermore, he always thought of himself as an American, defended America against all comers with the sharpest tongues in Europe, and strangely enough, looked back upon his days in West Point with pride. Military etiquette appealed to him. He would often criticize conduct with the words: "That is not West Point."

Now that some of Whistler's best work has been placed in Washington where all the honeymooning couples, the rubberneck wagon parties, the delegates of conventions, will daily file past it in the course of their conscientious duty as sight-seers, it is probable that his fame in his native land will grow. Certainly all that he needs is a press agent, for he had the kind of a personality that lends itself to popular interest. He was not important to a man's name than his work. Poe, of all great Americans in the fine arts, is the best known because of the picturesque and sensational qualities of his life. Whistler does not seem to have shared Poe's taste for red liquor and sad love affairs, but he was a born fighter. All his life he fought with his tongue, his pen, in the courts, and with his fists. His fighting is a mystery. His art was supremely serene and regal, but his personality was aggressive and explosive. He came on his father's side of a military family, and the love of battle for his own sake may have been in his blood. Sometimes his fighting suggests this. He seemed to need it as a stimulus. When a man died with whom he had long wrangled, Whistler lamented him.

"Tommy's dead," he mourned. "I'm lonesome. They are dying. I have hardly a warm personal acquaintance left."
In all of his battles, verbal and otherwise, Whistler seems to have come off well. Scott, a fellow artist much larger than himself, insulted him in a London club. Both of them published their versions of the encounter in the newspapers. Scott's version was veiled and evasive, but Whistler's was highly specific.
"The incident closed," he wrote, "by a kick administered on a part of Mr. Scott's body that was turned toward me, and that I leave him to specify."

Much of his sarcasm was undoubtedly a defense against bores and presumptuous persons. Thus a lady who had just returned from a trip on the Thames, assured Whistler that the scenery was "a perfect series of Whistlers."

"Yes, I dare say," the artist replied, "Nature is creeping up."

Oscar Wilde he long and gleefully pursued in the pen. When Wilde invited Whistler to his wedding, the artist sent a telegram:

"Fear I may not be able to reach you in time for the ceremony. Don't wait."

Wilde was always repeating Whistler's clever remarks as his own. One day, referring to some epigram of Whistler's, Wilde said:
"How I wish that I had said that!"
"You will, Oscar," Whistler assured him. "The whole story of his many battles is set forth in that remarkable book made from his letters and sayings and known as 'The Gentle Art of Making Enemies.' This book reveals a strange and formidable personality, a picture of a man of the keenest wit and intelligence, cool, self-contained, impudent, contemptuous, who went out of his way to insult men and who never apologized. This impression is tempered, it is true, by his known devotion to a few friends, and his gentleness with women. But the essential man, the artist, was evidently a kernel of which his social personality was the all-enveloping husk. The real man, serene and harmonious, was in his pictures. His favorite subject was night and the charm which it held for him he beautifully expressed in his famous 10 o'clock lecture."
"The evening mist clothes the riverside with poetry, as with a veil, and the poor buildings lose themselves in the dim sky, and the tall chimneys become campanilli, and the warehouses are palaces in the night, and the whole city hangs in the heavens, and fairyland is before us."

parks, and plan for the city now. There never will be a better time for Janesville to prepare for the future and get the park system on its way than in 1921.

The new chapter of the laws of the state wiping out the old special charter of the city of Janesville with those of many other cities in the state, occupies about 16 columns of newspaper space. It is a dollar to a cookie that more people read about Dempsey than will read the law.

With the bar taken off prescriptions and doctors permitted to write a thousand or as many as writer's cramp will permit, it may be expected that hundreds of ex-bartenders will go to medical colleges.

JUST FOLKS

I DON'T WANT TO
"I don't want to go to bed."
"I don't want to eat my bread."
"I don't want to be a kid."
Wonder if all folks are tried
By their children in the way
We are troubled through the day?
We are a most contented race
Is this "I-don't-want-to" age?

"I don't want to take a nap!"
"I don't want to wear my cap!"
"I don't want to wear my coat!"
Hear him at our least commands
Flinging back his wilful cry
And his most insistent "Why?"
Eight years old and forty-three,
Starting in to disagree.

Patience, that is needed here.
Judgment must not be severe;
Here's a boy who is a kid,
Told to put his toys away—
Here is life from start to close,
Conflict every mortal knows,
And the "I-don't-want-to" stage
Can be traced through every age.

Lord, when I come to think of it
And my life seems burdensome,
When I find my head in a spin,
When I feel my heart in my throat,
When I find such a day as this,
Why do I ever get my bliss?
Pray, be patient then with me
As with him I try to be.

Who's Who Today

JOHN T. ADAMS.

When the Republican national committee meets in Washington on June 8 to consider matters of importance to the party it will elect John T. Adams of Dubuque, Iowa, as chairman of the national committee to succeed John Hays of Indiana, who will resign on account of his appointment as postmaster general. Mr. Adams is the present vice chairman of the national committee. His election as chairman is assured because President Harding has named him to succeed Mr. Adams as postmaster general.

John Taylor Adams was born in Dubuque, Iowa, December 22, 1882. After securing a high school education, he entered the sea and door business at the age of nineteen. In this business he remained until he was now president of the Carr, Ryder and Adams Co.

Mr. Adams has taken an active and conspicuous part in politics since 1905, when he successfully managed the campaign of Senator Allison, who was opposed for reelection that year by Albert B. Cummins. In 1912 Mr. Adams managed the Tait campaign in the Iowa primaries, and since that year has been a member of the Republican national committee. He has been vice chairman of the committee since 1917.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Real Japanese Sentiment.

Whatever one's personal opinion of the alleged Japanese problem, there are two things about the country which ought to be made common sense easier in those words. In the first place, the present Imperial Government is a military oligarchy, and does not therefore represent the numerically superior elements of the population. Every detail of this superimposed rule was copied from Bismarck's Prussian Constitution by a commission sent from Japan in the early '70's to find the best Government in the West. Since that time the Japanese have been working to make the country more like Germany, and the Imperial Government has been applying to building up a State which outwardly is the precise counterpart of the more famous Imperial German Government, but which lacks the consistency and vigor of the latter. The Japanese are not the catchwords and paper forms are the same as in Germany before the war, but the roots of the Japanese Empire do not sink in to the fertility of majority opinion. There were no facilities at hand to connect the borrowed purpose with the force of the people's ambition. Hence Tokio does not swaggle in the name of Japan, which for the most part has not been touched by the imperial oratorical bootstrappers.

In the second place the grudge of even the militarists in Japan is comparatively recent and absurdly trivial. Hearst to the contrary notwithstanding, in 1905 President Roosevelt sent the Japanese delegates from the Portsmouth conference back to their people without the indemnity which the Government had expected from Russia, and with which they had raised the hopes of the people. The whole war was raised against the Japanese negotiators was then directed against the United States, and what was obviously fair treatment on Mr. Roosevelt's part was translated into a breach of good faith. Since that date, and only since that date, has there been any real grudge against the United States as a body to a people not yet interested. Tokio loves to wear a mask. To get at Japan we must go behind that and the silly grievances of the Foreign Office. From the letter of Richard F. Cleveland in the New York Times.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

May 24, 1901.—A number of Milwaukee, Chi. and St. Paul officials were in the city today inspecting the tracks and depot to see what steps will have to be taken in order to take care of the increased traffic that will result when the Janesville and Southeastern railroad starts running. The state championship golf tournament will be held in this city this year.

HAIRD, SOFT AND MEDIUM CORNS

The skin is constantly renewed by the multiplication of cells in its deeper layers, and the shedding of cells on the surface, the new cells pushing the older ones off. If pressure is exerted against a given spot on the skin, the old, dried out cells are prevented from escaping, and are crowded back in a compact mass. The cells pile up and spread out under the point of pressure, producing a sort of miniature blister or corn. The corn is a corn.

If the pressure is made by the shoe, it is a hard corn. If the pressure is made by an awkward gait, it is a soft corn. The only difference is that the soft corn is kept moist.

Short shoes with narrow toes cause most of the corns in our best families.

The human foot is a lot wider than any fashionable shoemaker cares to admit. Measure your own with your weight on the foot and see how much narrower your shoes are.

People confined to bed for a period of many weeks always get rid of their corns.

Remove the pressure from the corn if you hope to cure the corn. A felt ring may do this, but a shoe large enough to hold the felt ring is essential. To remove a corn, first soften it by soaking the foot in very hot water for 20 minutes, then dry it, and applying five grains of salicylic acid dissolved in half an ounce of flexible collodion, painted on the corn only. This softens the corn so that it may be picked off, if necessary.

The treatment daily—no harm in a hot foot bath every night—until the last vestige of the corn is removed. Then all you have to do is to avoid pressure on the spot to prevent its return.

Excised shoes are essential for the cure of soft corns. Never cut a corn or a callous without first washing your hands thoroughly, holding the corn in water, and then the razor with hot soapy water and alcohol, and painting the skin over and about the area to be carved with tincture of iodine.

Q. How the United States army regulation "dead march" J. D.

A. The ceremonial division of the war department is no official funeral march. When the relatives do not make a request for certain musical selections at a soldier's funeral, various suitable music is chosen, the only regulation being that taps be sounded.

Q. How many birds can a mockingbird imitate? S. S. E.

A. It depends upon the habit of the bird and its own inclination. The natural song of the mockingbird is beautiful and some of the species seldom attempt any mimicry, while others constantly imitate the sounds they hear. An observer recently recorded the imitating of 19 other bird songs by one mockingbird.

Q. What is the Japanese population of Hawaii? H. F. H.

A. According to a report of the census bureau (Nov. 16, 1920), the Japanese residents in Hawaii number 93,263, 47 per cent of the total population, which is 252,112. This was an increase of 27.1 per cent from 1910 to 1920.

Q. Where is the largest state building in the United States? J. W.

A. The state capital of Texas is the largest building of its kind in the United States.

Q. How many silk ribbons have water-proofed? E. E. G.

A. The bureau of standards says it is impossible to waterproof silk ribbon and yet have it remain soft and pliable for the uses that require it. That would make it waterproof fills up all the spaces between the fibers of the silk.

Q. Didn't the game of poker originate in the United States? G. J. W.

A. Poker is known as an American game, but it is undoubtedly an adaptation of the Persian game "as nas." It seems that this game came to the United States by way of New Orleans. It was in some ways similar to a game already in vogue there which was poque, a variation of an Italian name or its French derivative, "poque," the present "poque" is a mispronunciation of the French term, dividing it into two syllables, "po-que," and adding the "r" which is sounded only in some sections of the country.

Q. How many a stable be disinfected? C. C. W.

A. All loose litter should be removed from the floor, mangers, and watering troughs. Then the entire inside of the stable, including the ceiling, should be swept and scrubbed. Afterward a reliable commercial coal tar disinfectant, prepared strictly according to the manufacturer's directions on the original package should be applied. Sunlight and air are effective destroyers of germ life and should be admitted to the stable at every opportunity. Washing the interior of the stable is also helpful. A sprinkling of air-sinked lime over the floors and in the gutters helps keep the stable sweet and aids in disinfecting it.

Q. What causes train-sickness? E. P.

A. Many cases of train-sickness are directly due to astigmatism, with or without some other form of ametropia or derangement of the ocular muscle-balance. Proper eyeglasses usually help and often prevent this ailment.

THE GIRL WHO HAD NO CHANCE

By Marion Rubincam

CHAPTER XLII A NEW TYPE

The door opened and the most beautiful girl Ruth had ever seen came in. She was dressed in a magnificent opera cape of rose velvet, which set off her great black eyes and her glossy black hair as nothing else could. She had a "leer" like a cat and a flush of color too lovely to be anything but real. Her hair was pulled back to show her ears—beautiful in their profile, arch to make it slightly patrician, and a softly rounded chin set off by an amazingly long line down the chin and throat.

She dropped her cape, and stood there in the simplest dress dress. Myra laughed, then introduced Ruth. "Gabrielle," she said, "is a new type, a new name, Spanish-looking, as though it ended in 'ita'." "I've written about her. We're living in this hole while Emily's gone. Gaby, a girl with the best cape and your shabbier dress."

"Yes, I am a mixture," the newcomer answered complacently. "But I was late getting out, and couldn't get my dress and this is the best I had. So I grabbed it. Anyway, people hanging around stage doors like to see actresses' cars. In evening gowns, I'm not a bad thing. I believe all the lobster and champagne stories of the chorus girl."

So she was an actress? Of course, Myra had written so, but Ruth had also forgotten.

"You're the first actress I ever met," the girl ventured, looking in admiration at this beauty. "Dorlin, you flatter me! I'm not an actress, though if you'll convince a few managers of that I'll be forever grateful."

Suddenly Ruth knew where Myra's new manner came from. It was from Gabrielle. But with Gaby it sounded natural. With Myra it sounded forced. "I'm a chorus girl," Gaby went on. "Once I got as far as a small part in a musical show, and I had a huge salary for such parts. A hundred a week. I spent it faster than I made it, but thank heaven, I got enough clothes to last me for another year. I'm only a chorus girl at $35 a week now. So I wait instead of taxi riding, and I live in this hole near Broadway instead of my nice old apartment uptown."

"How lovely here," Ruth protested. "All our good things are Emily's. Like a duck, she gave us the best when she left, to fix up here. The rest of our belongings came from the '10-cent store'."

"Myra," Gaby called suddenly, jumping up. "I brought home my new dress." She ran from the room, and presently came back in a gown that fairly took away Ruth's breath. If Myra had been impressive, the woman who came back to them put her quite in the shade. The gown was by the latest fashion, spangled all over, and slightly veiled with ruffles of net. It was astonishingly low, amazingly becoming, and the great black feather fan simply added to the gorgeous effect.

"How much?" Myra asked critically.

"Three weeks' salary," Gaby answered. "But it was reduced a lot, and I couldn't resist it. I'm to pay $15 a week on it."

"I'll be worn out before it's paid for," Myra protested.

"Probably," but that's life. Some day I'll be rich and pay up all my bills. That will be one new sensation, at least!"

Ruth stared curiously at this new type. She lay awake all night thinking of her bills—and this woman cheerfully ran up hundreds of dollars without a thought.

Gaby played with her fan, and sang a snatch of a popular song, experimenting before a mirror to get the best effect as she sang.

Baked Bananas. Cereal.
Bread Crumb Waffles.
Maple Syrup. Coffee.

TESTED RECIPES
Creamed Cabbage—Cut small sized head of cabbage up finely, put in a large pot with a small amount of water and cook until tender. When done, chop into still smaller pieces and add milk to cover, add a generous piece of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boil and thicken with cornstarch to desired thickness.

CAKES OF CHOPS—Sear the chops in hot fat in the frying pan, brown on both sides. Place one or two pieces of the meat in the bottom of a greased baking dish, then a layer of sliced raw potatoes, then meat until both are used up. Season with salt and pepper, add one cup of stock and hot water, cover and bake until tender.

BEET SALAD—Chop five several pickled red beets. Mix with chopped walnuts and celery. Place on lettuce leaves and add a good salad dressing.

FROZEN DESSERTS
Sundae—Beat one cup sugar with one-quarter cup water until syrup spins a thread. Then pour drop by drop, while beating constantly, on three egg yolks. Cook over hot (not boiling) water until mixture coats the spoon. Beat until cold and add one tablespoon orange extract and two cups cream beaten until stiff. Pour into a mold, cover with buttered paper and freeze. Let stand two or three hours. Unmold and garnish with candied violets or orange peel.

PASTELS—Beat one cup sugar with one-quarter cup water until syrup will spin a thread. Pour slowly, beating constantly, on three stiffly beaten egg whites, and cook until cold. Beat in a paste of it, spread around holes and where they walk. They will not come that way but once spread thickly; it will last a long time.

TO BE RICH OF MOUTH—Sponge the clothes with gasoline, put away camp. Sprinkling gasoline lime on the floor of closets is also good to keep them out.

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

"One Who Knows." I am sorry, but limited space does not permit me to print your good letter of advice. Thank you for writing, however.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am only 17 years of age and deeply in love with a very attractive fellow of 21. On being out with him and a number of couples he insisted on drinking. The result was that he became very much intoxicated. Do you think I should go away and have nothing to do with him? Or should I accept his apology and continue going with him? HEARD-BROKEN.

Since you are so young I would advise that you give up the young man for the time being at least. He was very unattractively or he would not have conducted himself in such a way. If you prove that he is a good fellow, I think you will be able to establish a friendship, since he is so interested in you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 14 years old and have had letters time and again with some boys' letters signed to them and I am sure they have not written them. Some are very foolish letters.

I have accused some girls near by of writing them, but they deny it. I am quite certain they did. What means can I take to let them know I don't appreciate their doing it? It worries me so much.

DISCOURAGED SUE.

You are the victim of a practical joke and the more you tell them to show the more it will please the boys.

Dear—often bashful, sometimes wonders what to say, makes mistakes, is lonely. And then try to forget that he is a boy; treat him as you would one of the girls. He will be able to establish a friendship, since he is so interested in you.

"Two Brunettes."—At 25 the girl 5 ft. 2, should weigh about 120 pounds, and the one 5 ft. 11, about 113. You are too young to "keep company" with boys, but old enough to make friends and pals of all the nice boys in the neighborhood. You should be in by 9 o'clock every night, in the week except one, when 10 will do if your parents know where you are. What you are doing, and whom you are with, it is improper in some communities and unwise in all, for women to smoke; and it is wicked for girls of your age to do so, because it will seriously affect their health.

"Liable."—Only your own heart can tell you whether you love him enough to marry him. Personally I doubt it. If you can be put in doubt just by the way he looks—that he doesn't dress well. If he is a fine fellow in other respects, and you love him (and are careful about doing it) you probably could coax, teach and help him to be a neat dresser.

"Lucille Nic."—Your friend thinks you're a nice girl and likes you and that's all. You mustn't get any romantic notions in your head. Dear—he hasn't.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Page in care of the "What Shall I Do?" department will be answered in those columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the questions.

What Shall I Do?

Answered by VIRGINIA PAGE

Answers to Inquiries

"Troubled Heart"—I can't tell you which girl you ought to go with, but I can tell you that you like best. But I can tell you that you do not deserve the friendship of either. A boy with your ideas—that a man can do anything he pleases and still be respected, and that you can go on a girl to make sure she is doing right because he hasn't faith enough to trust her—well, you're all wrong. Boy, and some day when you've gotten yourself in trouble and broken the heart of the foolish girl who lets herself fall in love with you, you will realize that I am right.

"Discouraged Sue"—If you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question, I will be glad to send you the information you want.

"Brown Eyes"—Try to remember that the boy is human just like you.

"Baldy" Mallock Fights Billings Here Tuesday Night

CARD IS MADE UP IN ITS ENTIRETY OF BADGER BOXERS

THE CARD
 Opener—Joe Prox, Janesville, vs Jimmy Murray, Port Atkinson; 6 rounds at 132 pounds.
 Second preliminary—Eddie Hill, Janesville, vs Joe Lorry, Port Atkinson; 6 rounds at 135 pounds.
 Semi-final—Jack Zallo, Milwaukee, vs Joe Loucks, Milwaukee; 8 rounds at 135 pounds.
 Windup—Morris Mallock, Janesville, vs Eddie "Kid" Billings, Superior; 10 rounds at 145 pounds.
 Referee—Joe Knepper, University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Morris Mallock, the bald-headed Janesville chap who claims to have won the Canadian welter weight championship at one time, is ready to meet things up Tuesday night with Eddie "Kid" Billings of Superior in the final on the third card of the Janesville athletic club at the Myers theatre. His training completed, Mallock declares that he's not only in the pink but feeling highly confident of putting the sleeper over on Billings. He came into town Monday night from Delavan where he has been working out pepped to the highest notch.

Billings with his manager rattled into the city Monday morning from Superior. He took a brief work out at Eagles gym at 2:30 Monday afternoon. After several local fans had seen him stripped and in action, they changed their ideas a bit and predicted a mighty even battle. The welterweight Monday bothered Billings somewhat, the temperature at Superior being 10 to 15 degrees lower than in this neck of the timber. The Milwaukee battlers, Zallo and Loucks, who are in the first half of the double windup, dropped in Tuesday morning. Joe Lorry and Jimmy Murray, Port Atkinson lads who are in the first two scraps, were on deck early Monday. Eddie Hill and Joe Prox, local mill artists, completed their training Monday night and are in good shape.

All fighters weighed in at the Elks' lodge rooms at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The change in official quarters was made at the ruling of the state boxing commission.

KELLY, SENSATION OF MAJORS IN RACE WITH BABE FOR HOMERS

New York—The supremacy of Babe Ruth in the vocation of home run batting is threatened. George Kelly, the lanky first baseman of the Giants, who after experience with the Giants was sent by Manager McGraw to the Rochester International League club because of weak hitting ability, is proving a worthy rival in the struggle which has gripped the interest of the baseball public throughout the country.

Kelly came to the Giants by purchase from the Pacific coast several years ago as an outfielder. He is six feet, three inches tall and his height made McGraw school him as a first baseman.

In the folding department of the game he progressed rapidly. In batting, however, he remained woefully weak. It was this deficiency that caused his sale to the Rochester club after two years in New York. McGraw, however, decided to give him another trial so he was re-purchased by the Giants in the fall of 1919.

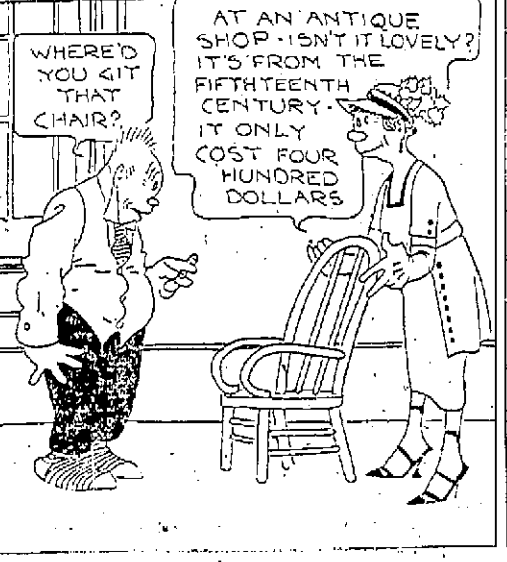

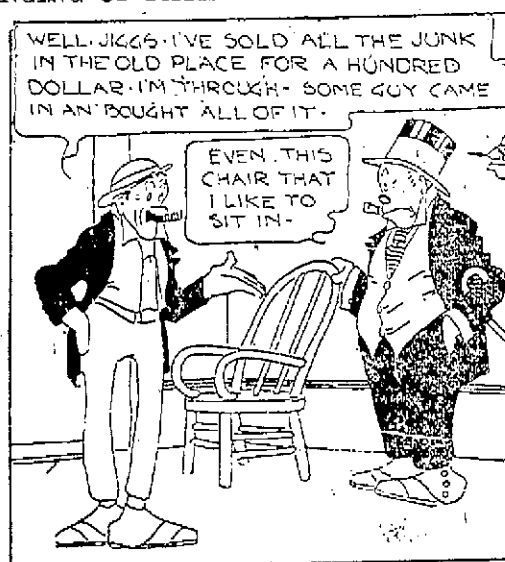

Four Behind Bunting
 The confidence which McGraw had shown in him gave him confidence in himself. He began to bat more consistently and hit the ball hard when he connected with it. His average was .266, eleven home runs and 100 hits.

HARDING'S GAME? IT'S JUST FAIR, SAYS HIS CADDY

Anthony Cogan on the links.
 Anthony Cogan used to be President Harding's caddy before joining the Washington bureau of an eastern paper as office boy. He also caddied for Senator Gilbert Hitchcock. "President Harding is just a fair player, couldn't beat Hitchcock," says Cogan, "but he's easy to caddy for and treats the caddy royally."

BRINGING UP FATHER

Jack to Rest in Early June

Atlantic City.—Jack Dempsey has progressed so rapidly in his training for his match with Georges Carpentier July 2 that manager Kearns contemplates giving the champion a week of absolute rest probably the first week of June, it was announced Tuesday. This is in accordance with the training campaign Dempsey followed for his battle with Jess Willard at Toledo two years ago when he suspended all training activities for six days because of the fear of going stale.

Dempsey rapidly getting into condition, the shortage of heavy-weight sparring partners in the champion's camp at present is causing Kearns no alarm.

Dempsey intends to box daily with Babe Herman, the Sacramento featherweight, and Alex Trantibus, a welterweight from Portland, to increase his speed. Herman gave the champion a slashing three round workout yesterday forcing him to extend himself.

Dempsey figures that the Pacific coast featherweight will give just the right edge to his boxing.

MILTON GIRLS BEAT WHITEWATER TENNIS STARS ON MONDAY

Milton—Milton college women tennis players defeated Whitewater Normal here Monday afternoon. The local girls took the doubles, but lost the singles. Rain delayed playing until near sundown.

In the doubles both Bingham and Jessie Post of Milton, defeated Viola Krueger and Marie Courtney of Whitewater, 6-2, 2-6, and 6-1. Viola Krueger (Whitewater) took the singles from Vera Coon (Milton), 6-4, 6-1.

same number of triples were included in the 1920 seasons figures. This year he has been the sensation of the Major leagues.

Tuesday the home run score was: Ruth 15; Kelly 8.

Kelly's style of hitting is in marked contrast to that of Ruth's. Kelly is a more rangy type of batsman although his weight is no greater than Ruth's. He bats and throws right handed while Ruth is left handed in both.

Kelly is a "wrist hitter." Ruth employs a long powerful swing with the arms, getting the benefit of every ounce of his weight.

Use of five pitchers by the White Sox failed to give them a shake of luck over the Senators Monday, who used two twirlers, and won 4 to 5. Charrry had a lot to do with the making of Washington's runs, whaling out three safeties.

With Bagby pitching his best game of the year, allowing the Red Sox four scattered hits, Cleveland won, 4 to 1. A triple by McGinnis and a sacrifice by Scott saved Boston from a shutout.

With the bases full, two down, and a tie ruling, Pipp singled in the ninth with the bases crowded. The result: New York won from St. Louis, 5 to 4.

Battling effectively behind Leonard's classy twirling, the Tygers whipped Philadelphia, 5 to 2.

Carp Works for Cunning Speed

Manhasset, Long Island.—Development of speed and cunning will be the chief factors sought for in the training of Georges Carpentier, for he relies mainly upon these two points to bring him victory over the champion, Jack Dempsey on July 2. Carpentier is in better condition and is tougher than ever in his career and when he started actual training Monday he weighed 172½ pounds or just one half pound more than he will weigh when he enters the Jersey City arena.

Monsieur Descamps, the Frenchman's manager, announced in fifty-fifty American and French that Georges was in good form enough to defeat a flock of Dempses.

The smiling blonde boxer works easy and with a speed that dazzles. Georges has a slight right jab that works fast and carries a drop. He is at all times on his toes, working a punch from both sides. His uppercut is well executed and his recovery perfect.

Milwaukee.—Frankie Henke shaded Frankie Schmalzer in ten rounds.

Will Carpenter Join This List?

Use of five pitchers by the White Sox failed to give them a shake of luck over the Senators Monday, who used two twirlers, and won 4 to 5. Charrry had a lot to do with the making of Washington's runs, whaling out three safeties.

With Bagby pitching his best game of the year, allowing the Red Sox four scattered hits, Cleveland won, 4 to 1. A triple by McGinnis and a sacrifice by Scott saved Boston from a shutout.

With the bases full, two down, and a tie ruling, Pipp singled in the ninth with the bases crowded. The result: New York won from St. Louis, 5 to 4.

Battling effectively behind Leonard's classy twirling, the Tygers whipped Philadelphia, 5 to 2.

J. H. S. in Return With Orford Wednesday
 Janesville high plays its third baseball game of the season Wednesday afternoon, meeting Orfordville for the second time. While they defeated Orford recently, 18 to 1, it was without that team's regular battery. With King in the box for Orfordville Wednesday there may be a different story to relate. He is generally conceded as three quarters of that outfit. Orfordville's wildcat, Charlie last week hit 1 to 1. This is taken to show the ability of King on the mound.

The Blues practice Tuesday afternoon. They will leave in autos Wednesday at 2:40.

BOWLING PLANNING TO MAKE PETITION ENDING DEADLOCK?

Talk of circulating a petition to call a general meeting of the Janesville bowling association to settle the deadlock in the payment of prize money for the city league is the latest development in the situation. It is noted around pin circles here that the petition will be drawn up, signed and presented to President Harry V. Ross asking for a meeting at the earliest opportunity. These believed to be behind the movement are the ones who want their money.

As the condition now rests, "Prexy" Ross has signed warrants authorizing the payment of prize money as of the records of Secretary Harold M. Lamphers for the end of the year. Ross' action is based upon a decision by the team captains held at a meeting during the middle of April to close the season in accordance with the secretary's books.

On the other hand, J. J. Nelson, treasurer, declines to pay the money, conceding a point demanded by James Newman, captain of the Bakers-Rites in regard to forfeiting three games. Crucial action by Clerk is expected. Nelson says he will not send out the checks.
